Membership fees:

General Members:

Catholic nurses licensed to practice in Canada, including Emeritus nurses, who consider their professional practice as a vocation grounded in the teachings of the Catholic Church, pledge to support the mission of the association, and pay the required annual dues. General Members have a vote and are eligible to serve as Board officers or on committees. $50.00 / year

Associate Members:

Non-Catholic nurses, Emeritus nurses, and non-nursing healthcare professionals who accept Roman Catholic values and moral principles, pledge to support the mission of the Association, and pay the required annual dues. Associate members have a voice, but are non-voting members. They may serve as committee members, but not as Board Officers or committee chairs. $30.00 / year

Student Members:

Catholic pre-licensure nursing students and students of other health disciplines with proof of student status, who wish to align their practice with Catholic moral teaching and the Association's mission, and attend an accredited health professional program in Canada. $15.00 / year

Catholic nursing students and NACN-Canada:

Nursing students at Ryerson and York universities have expressed interest in NACN-Canada. Nursing students in other cities may also be interested in joining us. Their initiative in contacting us provides an opportunity for mentorship.

A NACN-Canada board member joined Ryerson nursing students at the Bioethics Student (BEST) club's recent discussion on Humanae Vitae. The "BEST" club is the student group of the Toronto Catholic Doctors' Guild, which welcomes nurses as Associate members.

Associate members of the Canadian Catholic Physicians and Societies may attend this conference for the fee of $215 if paid by Mar. 31, 2019 and $225 if paid after that date. Nurses and student nurses may register as Associate members of their local Catholic Physicians' association. This will be great opportunity to meet Catholic health professionals from across Canada. See next page to sponsor a student nurse. To register as an associate member: <https://canadiancatholicphysicians.com/cfcps-membership/>

Please note that the Annual General Meeting for NACN-Canada will occur in the fall of 2019, not during the Canadian Catholic Physicians and Societies conference as previously announced.

Catholic Nursing Students' conference fund

The Newman Centre, University of Toronto, has kindly offered us an opportunity to sponsor Catholic nursing students to attend conferences, including the Canadian Catholic Physicians and Societies' annual conference being held in Toronto May 31-June 2, 2019. Each donation will have a charitable tax receipt issued for income tax purposes.

Donors should state that they direct their donations to the Catholic Leadership Formation Bursary. Although this is a general fund, the Newman Foundation will do its best to direct the donation to nursing students as directed by the donor.

If accumulated donations amount to $5000 over time, the Newman Foundation will discuss with us naming the fund after NACN-Canada. Donations can be made by cheque or online through <https://community.archtoronto.org/sslpage.aspx?pid=407>

Any questions about making a donation to this fund should be directed to Samantha.koon@newmantoronto.com

Nursing students can apply to the fund indicating their wish to attend the Canadian Federation of Catholic Physicians and Societies conference, being held May 31-June 2, 2019 in Toronto, with the early bird deadline of Mar. 31, 2019. Applications will also be accepted after the early bird deadline.

Any questions about applications to the fund should be directed to Erin@newmantoronto.com

Call for Conscience

A panel of three Ontario Court of Appeal judges heard new evidence and arguments between Jan. 21 and 22, 2019 in Toronto. The three-judge panel's ruling has been reserved, with observers expecting a decision in March. <https://www.catholicregister.org/item/28791-physician-conscience-rights-campaign-being-launched-in-ontario-alberta>

There is also an opportunity to participate in supporting conscience rights legislation in Saskatchewan through:
